We had several volunteers which included but not limited to three members of the Arkansas Army National Guard. They proved to be a valuable resource with skills that surpassed our expectations. Not only are they well versed in security, traffic and crowd control but also computer and customer services skills as well. They provided assistance in those areas as well as doing the heavy lifting, setting up and tearing down. Although they were not there in an "official" capacity, they were willing to take time off from their regular work schedules to help out. In a real emergency they would be invaluable to our operations.
